You've been dating for a few months now, and things have been going great. But lately, you've noticed that he's been pulling away a bit. He doesn't text you as much, he doesn't call you as often, and he doesn't seem as interested in spending time with you.

You're starting to worry that you're scaring him away. But before you jump to conclusions, it's important to take a step back and assess the situation. Are you really doing anything to scare him away?

Here are 10 signs that you might be scaring him away, and what to do about it:

1. You're too clingy.

If you're constantly texting him, calling him, and trying to spend every waking moment with him, you're going to scare him away. Men need their space, and if you're not giving him any, he's going to start to feel suffocated.

What to do: Give him some space. Let him miss you. Don't text him every day, and don't call him every night. Let him come to you.

2. You're too needy.

If you're constantly asking him for attention, affection, and reassurance, you're going to scare him away. Men don't like to feel like they're being used, and if you're always needy, he's going to start to feel like you're just using him for your own emotional needs.

What to do: Be more independent. Learn to be happy on your own. Don't rely on him to make you feel good.

3. You're too jealous.

If you're constantly accusing him of cheating or flirting with other women, you're going to scare him away. Men don't like to feel like they're being controlled, and if you're always jealous, he's going to start to feel like you don't trust him.

What to do: Trust him. Give him the benefit of the doubt. If he's giving you no reason to be jealous, then you need to stop being jealous.

4. You're too critical.

If you're always criticizing him, you're going to scare him away. Men don't like to feel like they're being judged all the time, and if you're always criticizing him, he's going to start to feel like you don't accept him for who he is.

What to do: Be more supportive. Compliment him more. Let him know that you appreciate him for who he is.

5. You're too controlling.

If you're always trying to control him, you're going to scare him away. Men don't like to feel like they're being controlled, and if you're always trying to tell him what to do, he's going to start to feel like you don't respect him.

What to do: Give him more freedom. Let him make his own decisions. Don't try to control every aspect of his life.

6. You're too demanding.

If you're always demanding his attention, time, and affection, you're going to scare him away. Men don't like to feel like they're being used, and if you're always demanding, he's going to start to feel like you're taking advantage of him.

What to do: Be more understanding. Be more patient. Don't always expect him to drop everything for you.

7. You're too negative.

If you're always complaining, gossiping, and being negative, you're going to scare him away. Men don't like to be around people who are always negative, and if you're always negative, he's going to start to associate you with negativity.

What to do: Be more positive. Be more optimistic. Try to see the good in things.

8. You're too insecure.

If you're always insecure about yourself, you're going to scare him away. Men don't like to be around people who are insecure, and if you're always insecure, he's going to start to feel like you don't believe in yourself.

What to do: Be more confident. Be more self-assured. Believe in yourself.

9. You're too intense.

If you're always coming on too strong, you're going to scare him away. Men don't like to be pressured, and if you're always coming on too strong, he's going to start to feel like you're trying to force him into something he's not ready for.

What to do: Be more relaxed. Be more casual. Don't try to force things. Let things happen naturally.

10. You're not being yourself.

If you're trying to be someone you're not, you're going to scare him away. Men can tell when
