The performing arts are constantly evolving, and the contemporary ensemble is at the forefront of this evolution. Contemporary ensembles are groups of artists who come together to create new and innovative work that challenges the traditional boundaries of theatre. They are often made up of actors, dancers, musicians, and visual artists, and their work often incorporates elements of multimedia, performance art, and experimental theatre.

The Contemporary Ensemble Interviews is a series of conversations with some of the most groundbreaking theatre makers working today. These interviews explore the artists' creative processes, inspirations, and the impact they are having on the evolving landscape of the performing arts.

Interview with Anne Bogart, Artistic Director of the SITI Company

Anne Bogart is one of the most influential theatre directors working today. She is the artistic director of the SITI Company, which she co-founded in 1992. The SITI Company is known for its innovative work that blends elements of theatre, dance, and music. Bogart's work has been praised for its physicality, its exploration of the subconscious, and its use of metaphor.

In her interview, Bogart discusses her creative process, her influences, and her vision for the future of theatre. She talks about the importance of collaboration, the role of intuition in her work, and the need for theatre to be relevant to the world we live in.

“ "I think theatre is a place where we can ask questions, where we can explore the human condition, and where we can find new ways of seeing the world. I think it's a place where we can find hope and inspiration, and where we can connect with each other on a deep level." - Anne Bogart "

Interview with Robert Wilson, Director, Designer, and Visual Artist

Robert Wilson, Director, Designer, and Visual Artist

Robert Wilson is a visionary theatre artist whose work has been seen all over the world. He is known for his distinctive visual style, which often incorporates elements of surrealism, expressionism, and minimalism. Wilson's work has been praised for its beauty, its theatricality, and its intellectual depth.

In his interview, Wilson discusses his creative process, his influences, and his thoughts on the future of theatre. He talks about the importance of imagination, the role of the audience in his work, and the need for theatre to be challenging and thought-provoking.

“ "I think theatre is a place where we can see the world from a different perspective, where we can explore our own imaginations, and where we can be challenged and inspired. I think it's a place where we can come together as a community and share a unique experience." - Robert Wilson ”

Interview with Ping Chong, Artistic Director of Ping Chong + Company

Ping Chong is a pioneering theatre artist whose work has been seen all over the world. He is the artistic director of Ping Chong + Company, which he founded in 1975. Ping Chong's work is known for its social and political commentary, its use of multimedia, and its innovative storytelling techniques.

In his interview, Chong discusses his creative process, his influences, and his thoughts on the future of theatre. He talks about the importance of diversity and inclusion in theatre, the role of the artist in society, and the need for theatre to be relevant to the world we live in.

“ "I think theatre is a powerful tool for social change. It can help us to understand different cultures, to challenge stereotypes, and to build bridges between people. I think it's a way to make the world a more just and equitable place." - Ping Chong ”

The Contemporary Ensemble Interviews is a fascinating and inspiring look into the minds of some of the most groundbreaking theatre makers working today. These interviews offer a glimpse into the creative process, the influences, and the visions of these artists. They also provide a valuable insight into the evolving landscape of the performing arts.

As the performing arts continue to evolve, the contemporary ensemble will continue to play a vital role. Contemporary ensembles are pushing the boundaries of theatre and creating new and innovative work that is challenging, thought-provoking, and inspiring.
